Keep It Inside

Aside from storage containers, Tupperware makes cookware aimed at retaining 98 per cent of the nutrients in the ingredients. Thanks to the moisture-lock lids, the Tupperchef Inspired Cookware collection requires less water to cook. This allows food to be prepared in its natural moisture, which helps to retain nutrients.

The cookware range costs from $216 to $552 and is available at Tupperware, #01-00, 85 Defu Lane, tel: 6285-3988.

CHART ART

Art can also hang in the kitchen. Dress your cookspace with these posters by Pop Chart, which portray detailed variations of popular food and drinks such as pasta and coffee. It's also a conversation starter for guests who prefer to stay in the kitchen to chat with you as you put the finishing touches on dinner.

Available at Pomelo Home, #10-04 Tan Boon Liat Building, tel: 6226-4663.

BETTER WITH AGE

Electrolux's new line of intuitive appliances is the result of feedback gleaned from visits to over 1,000 South-east Asian households. The range includes the FlexFresh range of fridges (from $689) that not only preserves your fresh food better, but also boosts the vitamin content of fruits and vegetables with a special lightwave treatment.

Sold at all major electrical stores and Electrolux authorised dealers.

FRESHLY BLENDED

The new Natural P12 Blender ($799) by Mayer Marketing not only looks stylish in three jazzy colour options, it also boasts an ultra-high blending speed of 3hp – fast enough to crush ice cubes finely. It's also great at blending smoothies and bisques, as it has a preset "Phyto-Rich Vegetable" function that runs at the exact speed and duration required to extract maximum phytonutrients from fruits and vegetables.

Available at Mayer, #05-06 Plaza Singapura, and all other Mayer Marketing showrooms, www.mayer.sg.
