

Tupperware fair this weekend

By Sim Bak Heng

TUPPERWARE Brands Corporation will hold a carnival at the Danga City Mall on Saturday and Sunday from 10am to 10pm for visitors to experience its latest innovative products.

The two-day carnival will also feature health checks, beauty tips and pointers for healthy living and space conservation.

Tupperware Brands Malaysia will introduce its award-winning Nano Nature Water Filtration System to its sales force and consumers in the southern region.

Visitors will also be able to sample the clean, safe and nutrient-rich water generated from the system, using its patented Nano-Ceram Technology and three-stage filtration.

Tupperware Brands Malaysia marketing director Christine Wong said the carnival is expected to draw more than 20,000 visitors, judging by the support it had received at the recent carnival held at the Mid-Valley Megamall in Kuala Lumpur.

She said the carnival will give visitors in the southern region a chance to experience all that Tupperware

A wide variety of Tupperware kitchenware will be on display during the carnival.

Brands has to offer, as well as take part in a host of exciting activities.

"There will be a demonstration on the techniques for easy makeovers, make-up techniques and grooming tips with BeautiControl, Tupperware Brands' beauty and skin care range.

"Visitors will also be able to check their Body Mass Index and blood pressure levels, conduct their health checks and receive free consultation from nutritionists," Wong said.

Other exciting events are lucky draws, environmental activities, special auction of limited-edition Tupperware products and a host of fun activities and games for the entire family.

Tupperware Brands consultants will also be able to enjoy exclusive purchases at the carnival.
